

A 3x3 grid of nine apples, each showing a different color variation from a red apple to a yellow-green apple, illustrating the effect of the alpha channel on color transparency. The apples are arranged in a 3x3 grid, with the top-left apple being the most red and the bottom-right apple being the most yellow-green. The background is a light gray with a subtle grid pattern.